Jonathan Holloway

About the President

Jonathan Holloway, a U.S. historian, took office as the 21st president of Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, on July 1, 2020. He also serves as a University Professor and Distinguished Professor. President Holloway's scholarly work specializes in post-emancipation U.S. history with a focus on social and intellectual history.

Dr. Holloway, who began his academic career at the University of California, San Diego, received a bachelor's degree with honors in American studies from Stanford University and a Ph.D. in history from Yale University. Prior to accepting the presidency of Rutgers, Dr. Holloway was provost of Northwestern University from 2017 to 2020 and a member of the faculty of Yale University from 1999 to 2017.

Welcome from the President

Welcome to Rutgers University–New Brunswick! If you are looking at this guide, chances are that you are new to the university.

It's a remarkable place, mixing a centuries-old history with a cutting-edge commitment to innovation in service to New Jersey and the world. For most of its more than 250 years, Rutgers was a small private college, but it has grown to become a large, comprehensive public research university—and you can see elements of that evolution in the architecture, public spaces, and landmarks of Rutgers–New Brunswick.

All across our campuses, Rutgers offers you the best. There's the raucous Big Ten excitement of football at SHI Stadium and basketball at Jersey Mike's Arena. The bucolic quiet of Passion Puddle and the Rutgers Gardens. The cultural riches of the Zimmerli Art Museum and the New Brunswick Performing Arts Center. On the academic side, we have new facilities to match our research excellence, along with a state-of-the-art academic building that stands alongside our Honors College. And our students love The Yard, a dynamic combination of apartment-style residential living, eateries, and a grass commons with a giant video board along College Avenue. These are just a few of the highlights at Rutgers–New Brunswick, which I can't wait to have you experience firsthand.

Enjoy this guide as you get to know the university I am so proud to call home.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Holloway
President and University Professor
Rutgers University–New Brunswick

Francine Conway

About the Chancellor

Francine Conway, Ph.D., became Chancellor of Rutgers University–New Brunswick in July 2023, after leading the institution for two years as Chancellor-Provost and serving previously as Provost. She is also a Distinguished Professor in the Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology, where she served as Dean from 2016-2020, and is an internationally recognized clinical psychologist.

Welcome from the Chancellor

Welcome to the Rutgers–New Brunswick family!

You have joined a vibrant and exciting community that believes all students have the opportunity to be successful in the discovery and pursuit of knowledge, passion, life goals, and personal development. We have long been a nationwide leader in higher education and in fostering the success of our students—and now we are building on that success with bold new initiatives that will enhance the experiences you will have on our beautiful campus.

Let's look at where we are now: a Top 20 public university and member of the Big Ten Academic Alliance; world-class academic and professional programs; an outstanding range of opportunities for hands-on learning across STEM, the humanities, social sciences, and arts, and a proud culture of diversity. And, most importantly, a commitment to supporting every student and fostering their success.

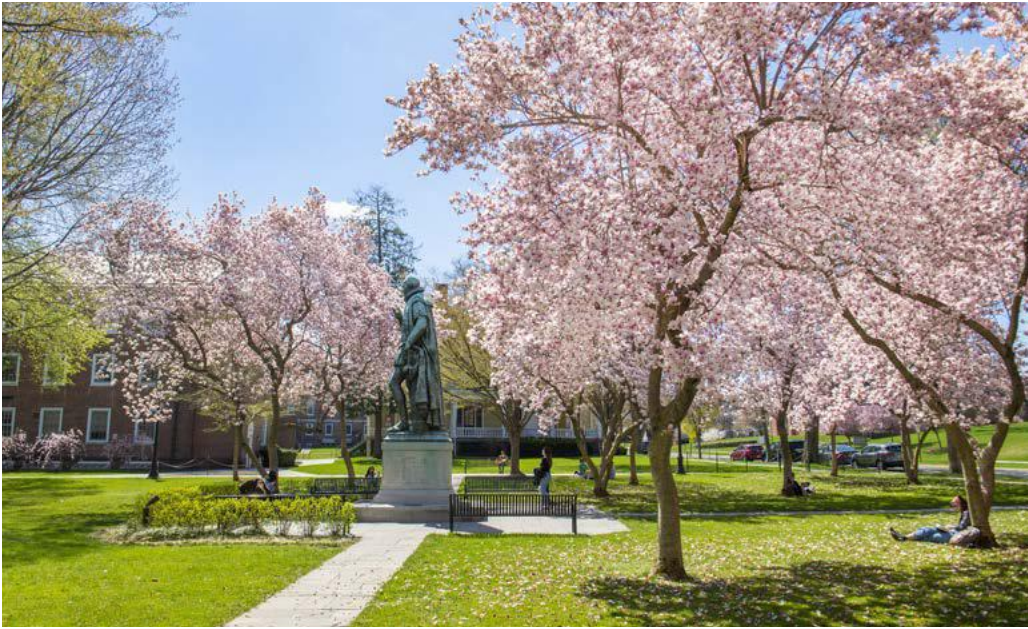

And now let's look at where we're going: Rutgers–New Brunswick recently launched an Academic Master Plan (AMP) based on our community's strengths, opportunities, and values.

Our implementation of the AMP includes new initiatives that reflect our commitments to you. These include Discovery Advantage, which will redesign the student experience from enrollment to retention and graduation; ScarletWell, a public health and prevention-focused approach to community wellness; Chancellor Challenges which will empower our students to address society's grand challenges in diverse, cross-disciplinary learning communities; initiatives to expand the access and affordability of higher education; and teaching and mentoring practices that will support your academic progress while fostering a sense of belonging and inclusion.

Rutgers–New Brunswick is excited to embark on this journey with you. We invite you to help us shape the future together.

Sincerely,

Francine Conway, Ph.D.
Chancellor and Distinguished Professor
Rutgers University–New Brunswick

Rutgers is a member of the Big Ten Academic Alliance, a consortium of 14 world-class American research universities that shares expertise, leverages campus resources, and collaborates on innovative programs.

Who We Are

Rutgers is a leading national public research university, serving more than 67,000 students at major locations in New Brunswick, Newark, and Camden. The university has more than 500,000 living alumni worldwide and graduates more than 19,000 students each year. As the state’s preeminent, comprehensive public institution of higher education, we have a threefold mission.

Academic Excellence Rutgers aspires to be the national model for outstanding academic programs, social mobility, and educational equity with purposeful and timely degree completion, career preparation, and lifelong learning.

Beloved Community Rutgers values and encourages a culture of diversity, inclusion, and respect. We are committed to identifying and taking concrete and measurable actions to address social, economic, and racial inequities.

Common Good The work Rutgers does through the excellence of its health systems, scholarly research, and outreach programs profoundly impacts the creation, sharing, and application of knowledge. Our collaborations with local and global partners addresses societal challenges and improves the lives of people in New Jersey and around the world.

Historic Home Chartered in 1766 as Queen’s College in New Brunswick, Rutgers is the nation’s eighth oldest institution of higher learning and one of nine colonial colleges established before the American Revolution.

Our Name In the early 19th century, trustee and Revolutionary War veteran Colonel Henry Rutgers donated vital funds to sustain the institution; in 1825, we renamed the school in his honor.

New Jersey’s Land-Grant Institution In 1864, Rutgers became New Jersey’s land-grant institution due to the lobbying efforts of Rutgers professors George H. Cook and David Murray.

The State University of New Jersey In 1945 and 1956, state legislative acts designated Rutgers as The State University of New Jersey.

Five Campus Communities Rutgers University–New Brunswick has facilities in the city of New Brunswick, the township of Piscataway, and several surrounding municipalities. The campus functions as a small, vibrant city, made up of five communities.

Prestigious Membership In 1989, Rutgers was invited to join the Association of American Universities (AAU), making Rutgers one of the top 71 research universities in North America.

Revolutionizing Health Care Rutgers Health, the health education, research, and clinical division of the university, was established in July 2013.

ALWAYS EXCITING • ALWAYS EVENTFUL • ALWAYS FUN ALWAYS NEW BRUNSWICK!

There's ALWAYS a great time waiting in New Brunswick City Center! Enjoy incredible dining, shopping, and entertainment options - all within walking distance from campus.

Beloved Community

Here at Rutgers–New Brunswick, we pride ourselves on our commitment to work together to embody, reflect, and respect the complexities of our identities. At the core of Rutgers is a “beloved community”—a community defined by tolerance, mutual respect, diversity, and the spirited exchange of opinions and ideas.

Through living-learning communities and the Cultural Center Collaborative, we embrace our differences to foster a sense of belonging. Our learning communities bring together an array of students who share similar academic interests to create opportunities to live, learn, and grow together. The Cultural Center Collaborative consists of four centers committed to supporting the needs of Rutgers’ students, faculty, and staff inclusive of all identities and allies.

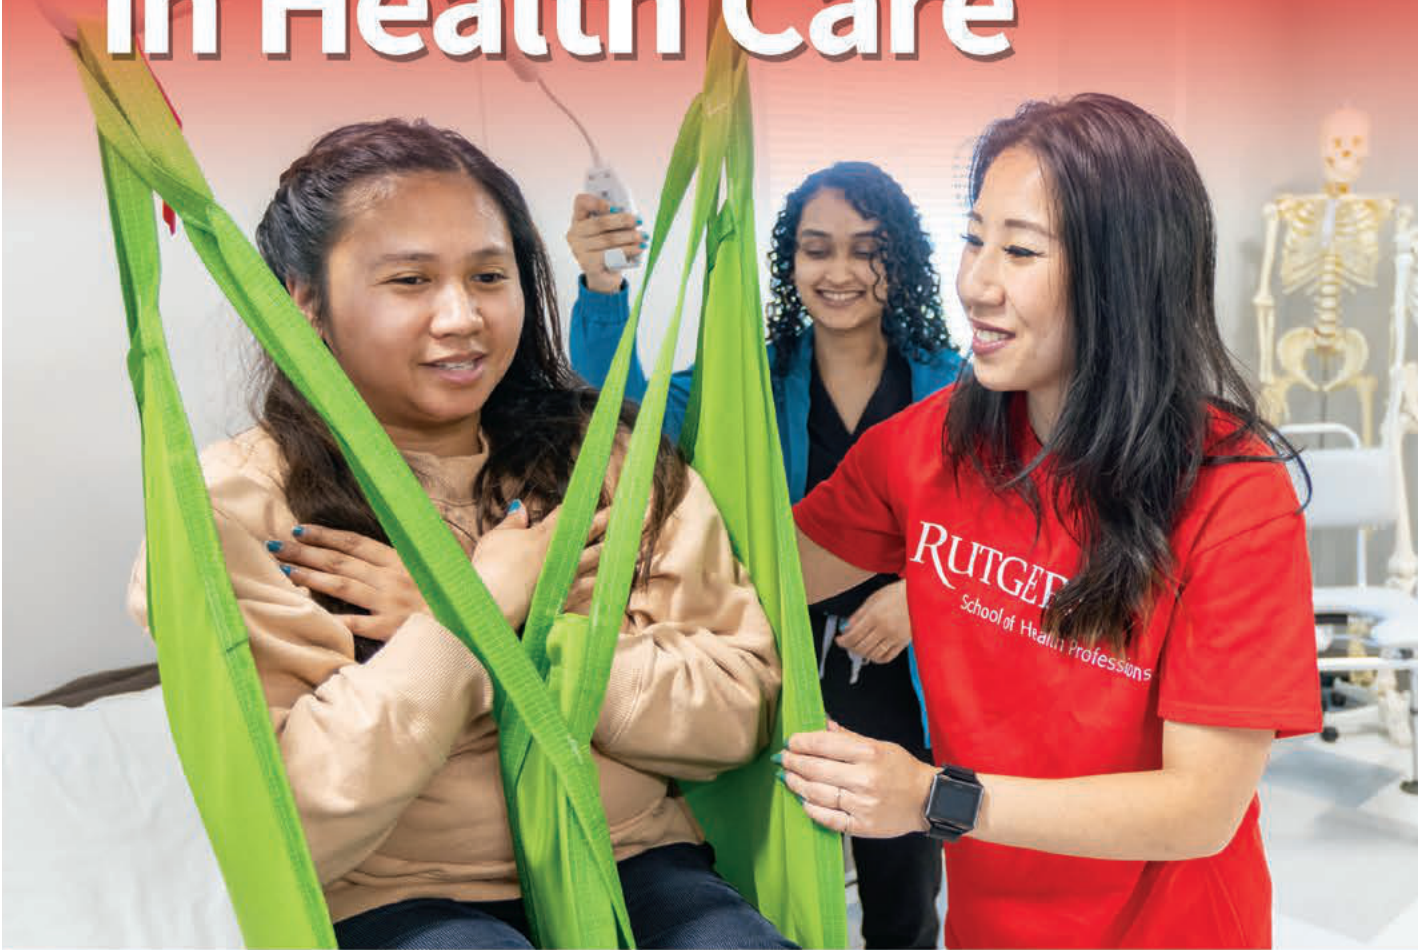

Visit culturalcollaborative.rutgers.edu to learn more about our centers.

“A beloved community is when we acknowledge one another, including differences and similarities, to create a more robust university.”

- President and University Professor, Jonathan Holloway

Rutgers University–New Brunswick: Overview

Five Residential Campus Communities

Rutgers University–New Brunswick is made up of five smaller campus communities that straddle the Raritan River in New Brunswick, Piscataway, and surrounding municipalities. Each of the five has a distinctive character, but all are equally accessible and completely available to Rutgers students. A short ride on the free bus service connects them.

The W. M. Keck Center for Collaborative Neuroscience on Busch campus focuses on spinal cord injury research to develop therapies for people with brain injuries, stroke, multiple sclerosis, Alzheimer's disease, Parkinson's disease, and more.

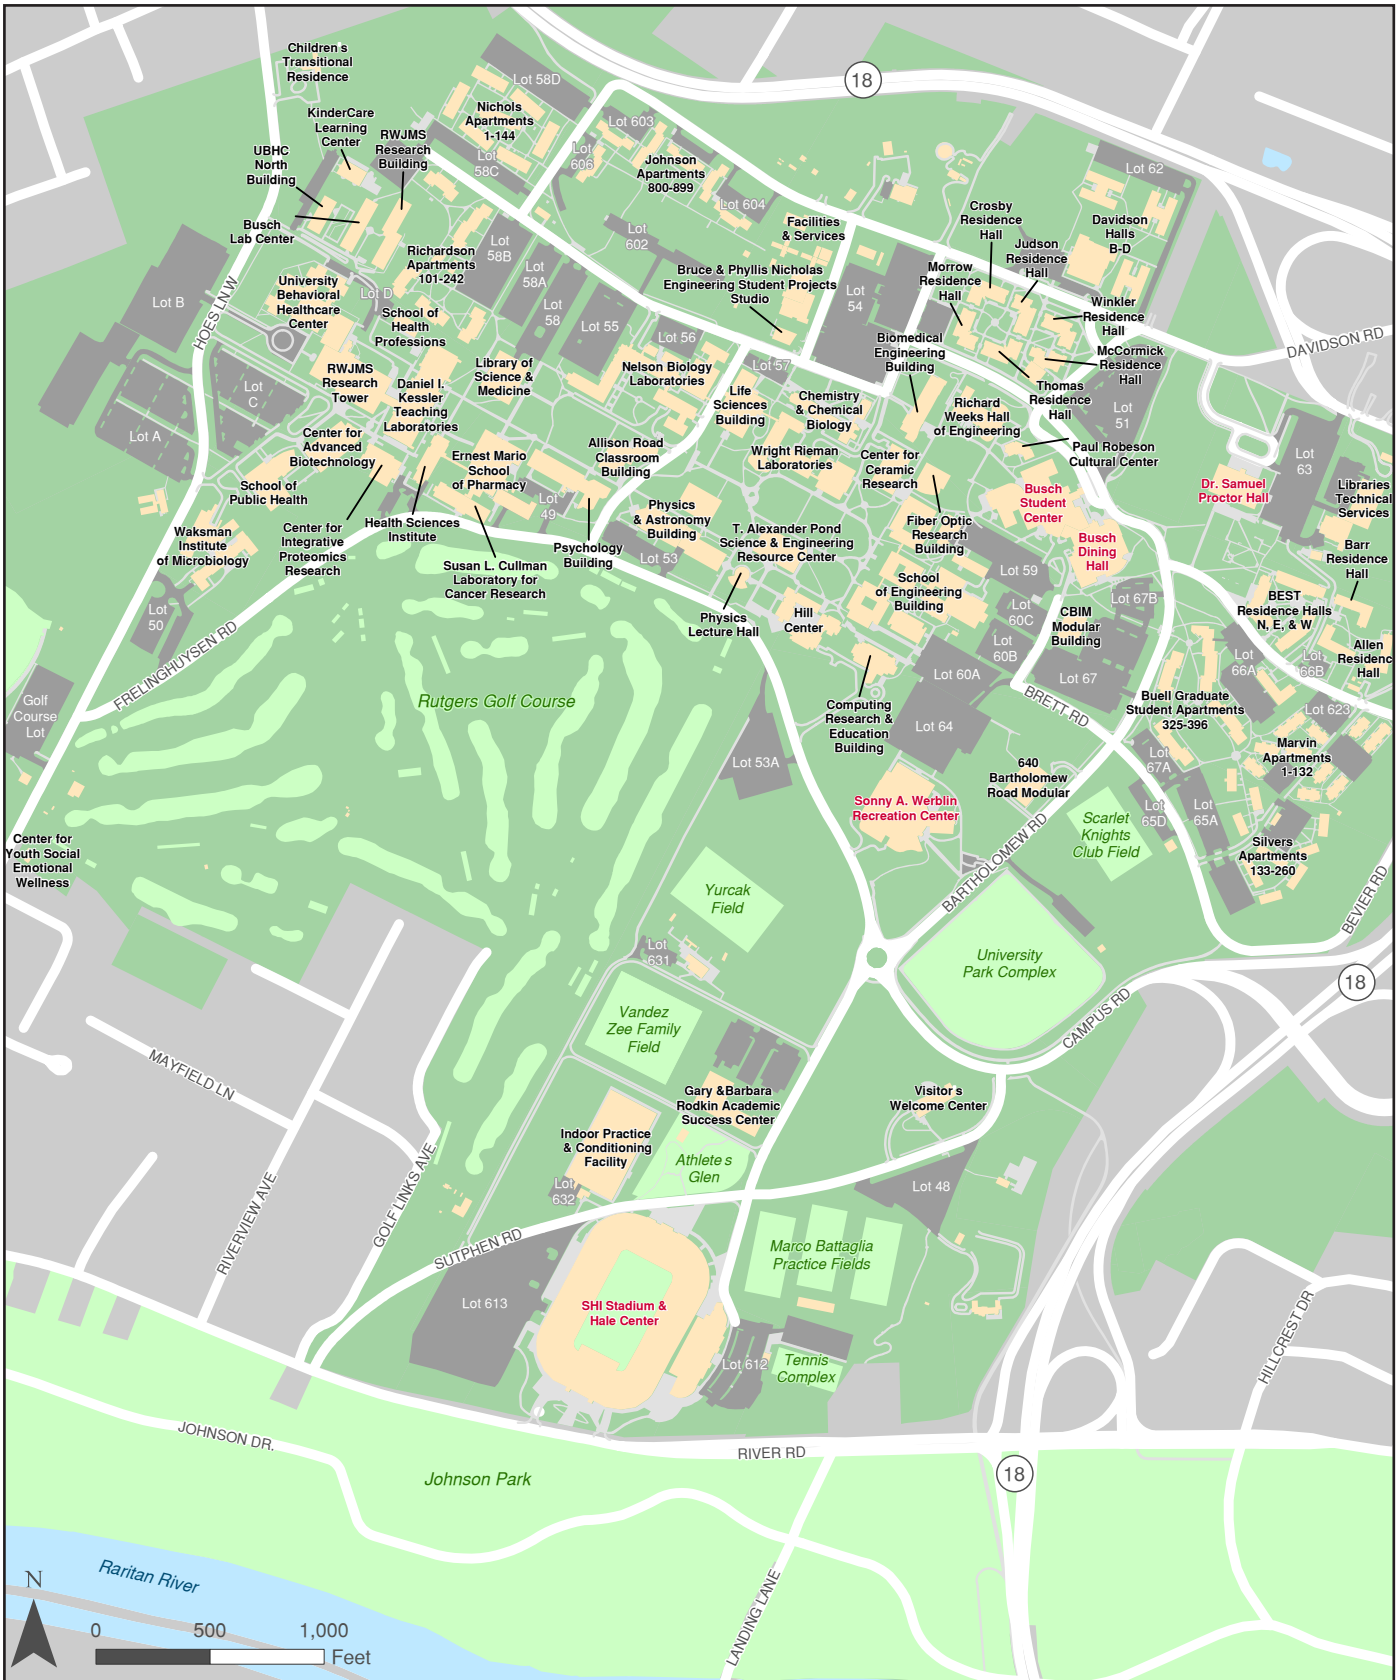

Busch Campus

Through the Rutgers Visitor Center, Busch is the first campus you may visit on your Rutgers journey. Busch is notable for housing Rutgers' high-tech spaces dedicated to pursuits in science, engineering, and medicine. The Ernest Mario School of Pharmacy, School of Engineering, Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology, Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, and many academic departments in the School of Arts and Sciences are found here, contributing their expertise. Sports fans flock to Busch to cheer on the Scarlet Knights football team at the 52,000+ seat SHI stadium.

Features Unique to Busch

- An 18-hole golf course
- Paul Robeson Cultural Center
- Rutgers Esports Center, for casual and competitive gamers
- SHI Stadium, football stadium of the Scarlet Knights
- Werblin Recreation Center, which has an Olympic-sized pool

Livingston Campus

The expansive Livingston campus was once the site of Rutgers’ first coeducational liberal arts college, Livingston College. Now, the campus is a burgeoning center for business and professional studies, offered through Rutgers Business School, the School of Management and Labor Relations, and many academic departments in the School of Arts and Sciences. If you’re looking for a suburban ambience, you’ll enjoy Livingston’s amenities, which include a collection of shops, a movie theater, and quick bites known as “The Plaza” and popular dining, leisure, and residential spaces. Jersey Mike’s Arena brings Big Ten fun to the campus too, providing a lively venue for Rutgers’ men’s and women’s basketball teams as well as other sporting events and concerts.

Features Unique to Livingston

- An ecological preserve
- The Asian American Cultural Center
- Jersey Mike’s Arena, home of Scarlet Knights basketball teams
- The Plaza, which includes Rutgers Cinemas

College Avenue Campus

Established before the American Revolution as Queen’s College, Rutgers has a significant place in history, most apparent on the College Avenue campus. Connect with this rich past by strolling along tree-lined walkways in Voorhees Mall, where our largest school today, the School of Arts and Sciences, has many departments and classroom spaces in brownstone buildings. Beyond Voorhees Mall is College Avenue, the namesake of the campus. Student activities, cultural centers, and academic spaces converge here, making College Avenue a place of inquiry and boundless spirit.

Features Unique to College Avenue

- Barnes & Noble at Rutgers, the official university bookstore
- Center for Latino Arts and Culture, Center for Social Justice Education & LGBT Communities
- Old Queens, historic site of Queen’s College
- The Yard, a student life experience

New Brunswick

Rutgers University–New Brunswick: College Avenue

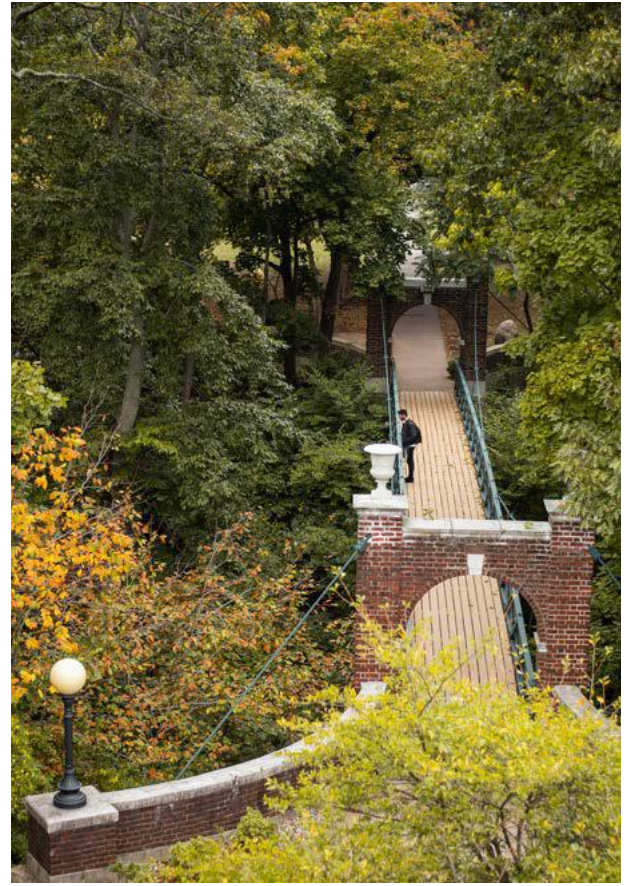

Douglass Campus

Tranquil walking trails, tree-lined paths, and Georgian Colonial architecture give the Douglass campus its quiet, park-like charm. The campus was named for Douglass College, which was once Rutgers' liberal arts college for women. Now, Douglass is no longer a degree-granting school, but its programs remain at the forefront of the university's efforts to advance equity in higher education. The campus also supports the journeys of artists and humanitarians through the facilities of Mason Gross School of the Arts, the nationally prominent Eagleton Institute of Politics, the Institute for Women's Leadership, and many academic departments in the School of Arts and Sciences.

Features Unique to Douglass

- Douglass Residential College
- Mason Gross Performing Arts Center
- Ravine Bridge
- University Inn & Conference Center
- Voorhees Chapel

George H. Cook Campus

The George H. Cook campus, with its rural landscape, is an idyllic respite from urban living and is the location of the School of Environmental and Biological Sciences (SEBS). SEBS has an extensive record of scientific and agricultural advancement and leads Rutgers research in science, technology, the environment, and human impact on the planet. Cook's living laboratories and experiential learning spaces—including farms, greenhouses, gardens, and a living wall—are a hallmark of the academic programs here. Through Cook's green acres and state-of-the-art facilities, students address today's most pressing problems related to the environment, climate, agriculture, food systems, and more.

Features Unique to George H. Cook

- The "living wall" in the New Jersey Institute for Food, Nutrition, and Health
- Passion Puddle
- Rutgers Gardens (access via nearby Ryders Lane)
- Rutgers' research farm
- Teaching and research greenhouses

The Rutgers Athletic programs consist of 24 intercollegiate sports that compete at the NCAA Division I level in the Big Ten Conference, of which it became a member on July 1, 2014. Season and single game tickets are available for football, men's and women's basketball, wrestling and men's lacrosse, while fans are admitted FREE to all other sports at the New Brunswick/Piscataway campus.

Honors College

Curiosity. Knowledge. Purpose.

At the Honors College, we're redefining honors education by inviting high-achieving students from across the university to live and work together to address societal issues and transform ideas into action. Our students explore their intellectual curiosity, gain hands-on knowledge, collaborate in small interdisciplinary teams, and serve communities locally and abroad throughout their academic careers.

Through our interdisciplinary approach, you'll learn to:

- Ask the questions that will address tomorrow's problems
- Be flexible enough to adapt to what's next
- Use your imagination and knowledge to make the world a better place

Diversity and Excellence The Honors College is a diverse and inclusive community within Rutgers–New Brunswick, one of the nation's most diverse universities.

Small Community, Vast Resources With an average of approximately 500 first-year students, you'll experience a small college setting coupled with Rutgers' vast resources. From the very beginning you'll be exposed to opportunities for research, internships, global experiences, innovation, entrepreneurship, and more. You'll have access to a broad network of support, including live-in faculty, on-site academic advisers, and mentors.

We Ask More We commit to a learning experience ignited by the exchange of ideas. We engage each other through the shared interests of a community focused on ideas and plans to address societal challenges. The goal? A life and career with purpose.

Douglass Residential College

Your Rutgers Journey Starts Here!

Douglass Residential College (DRC) is part of Rutgers University–New Brunswick. Douglass provides students the best of both worlds: the education of a world-class research university amplified by the support and resources of a close-knit college community. Douglass enhances the Rutgers experience for all majors by adding a feminist lens to their education and by providing a sense of belonging for incoming students.

The Douglass Experience provides students:

- A Douglass-specific career center that focuses on advancing professional lives and creating career pathways through externships
- Award-winning research and learning opportunities in STEM, the arts, and liberal arts

Student Stories

Rutgers students are smart, diverse, ambitious, and engaged with the world around them. Get to know what our students are like by reading stories shared by Scarlet Knights Grace, Andrew, Kayla, and Reva.

Grace H.

Major: Mathematics (Actuarial Science)

Hometown: Westfield, New Jersey

Class of 2025

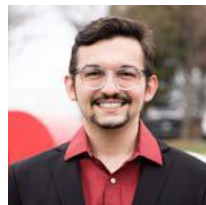

I transferred to Rutgers from a smaller school because I knew I wanted more. Rutgers' involvement experiences pushed me outside my comfort zone and allowed me to cultivate my two greatest passions, exercising and baking.

During my first month at Rutgers, I became involved in CHAARG: Changing Health Attitudes and Actions to Recreate Girls, a health and fitness community that empowers women who are passionate about physical fitness. Each week, we meet on campus to share a workout. This year, I am proud to not only be a CHAARG member but also event coordinator for our Rutgers chapter. This has been a big leadership learning experience for me.

I coordinate with local studios—including CrossFit, dance, and yoga studios—to create partnerships that allow our members to try different forms of physical fitness. Working on a team of seven executive board leaders for a club that has over 60 members has given me the opportunity to be “comfortably uncomfortable,” helping me learn more about my perseverance and time management, collaboration, and communication skills—all important for my future as a teacher and business owner.

I recently launched a hometown cookie business. Growing up, I loved being in the kitchen with my mom, cooking by her side, and I started to love baking in elementary school. During high school and the COVID-19 pandemic, I practiced baking a lot more. The skillset I developed at Rutgers helped me bring my business vision to reality.

One year ago, I was unsure of who I would become at Rutgers, but since then, I've grown, become more involved, and even found new passions. I know that I will find success through what Rutgers has given me, and as I've learned, you always have the strength to complete one more rep . . . or eat one more cookie.

Andrew R.

Major: Chemistry (Premedicine Track)

Hometown: Lexington, Ohio

Class of 2024

I have always loved city life; the constant vigor relaxes me. As a high school student, I knew I desired this attribute—as well as campus diversity—when deciding which university to attend. This is exactly what I found in Rutgers, a school with big opportunities, big resources, and numerous ways to get involved. When I toured Rutgers, I knew I found my perfect match. (In fact, although I'm an out-of-state student, my classmates often think I am from New Jersey. Maybe it's my driving!)

There is a spot for everyone here. During my time at Rutgers, I have become a Scarlet Ambassador, Honors College Ambassador, First-Year Interest Group Seminar (FIGS) instructor, and chemistry teaching intern. I am also a member of OSTEM, an LGBTQ student organization that connects students and allies outside of the classroom through field trips and mentorship.

All my involvement experiences helped me develop my formal knowledge, but being a Scarlet Ambassador has been the most transformative. I remember how much I loved my own campus tour, and as a Scarlet Ambassador, I create that experience for other people. In this leadership role, I fell in love with Rutgers' culture and environment, and I love supporting students as they make this important, life-changing decision.

As a chemistry major with aspirations of becoming a physician, I never thought I would do something non-science related, but through leading as a Scarlet Ambassador, I honed my public speaking and time management skills and learned how to handle situations under pressure. This skillset will be vital as a physician, and I wouldn't have developed it if I didn't pursue opportunities outside of my STEM major.

My route to medical school may be non-traditional, but because I have had all these unique experiences, I have refined different habits and skills that I will need to be successful.

Kayla C.

Major: Human Resource Management
Hometown: Hillsborough, New Jersey
Class of 2025

My mom gave me her Rutgers t-shirt—the one she had while she was a Rutgers student. Every time I put it on, I am reminded of my family’s legacy. Both my mom and aunt are Rutgers alumnae. I grew up learning about Rutgers, and when I visited campus during my senior year of high school and saw my mom’s stories and memories come alive, I felt a sense of belonging. I was meant to be a Scarlet Knight.

Rutgers was one of the only schools on the east coast with a human resource management major. I was unsure about pursuing the major until I took a class with Professor Greenbaum, an instructor who had an industry career. When I realized he still cared about his field and was teaching to share his learning with future industry leaders, like me, I was inspired. That was when I could see myself in human resource management.

During my next year, professors for other classes in my major were also engaging and enthusiastic, and they were so kind and willing to help. In fact, all the professors I had—even in courses outside my major—were extremely passionate. The way my professors spoke about their course material was how I wanted to feel about my chosen professional path; I am determined to find passion.

Through my interactions with my professors and involvement in the RU SHRM (Society for Human Resource Management) undergraduate chapter, I have been able to meet other students pursuing a human resource management major and gain more knowledge about the field. Organization events as well as networking and advancement occasions have given me a glimpse of the possibilities after graduation.

Today, I have my own memories to add to my family’s Rutgers stories, and I dream about where my future and career can lead me.

Reva T.

Major: Public Policy (Prelaw Track), Minor: Spanish
Hometown: Princeton, New Jersey
Class of 2024

Throughout my life, I have lived everywhere. Princeton is where I call home, but my family lives in Saudi Arabia. In fact, I did a lot of my growing up in Saudi. For high school, I attended a boarding school right outside of Philadelphia. I am fortunate for my varied living experiences. They have given me a different perspective on the world that I am able to share with individuals, which is something I admire most about my journey.

Different perspectives are what make Rutgers great! I don’t think people know just how diverse we are. For me, the most rewarding thing about Rutgers is being able to walk on campus and see people of all different walks of life, backgrounds, and colors and beliefs. At Rutgers, you are able to connect with a community of individuals—some you have quite a few things in common with and others who challenge you to grow.

I aspire to be challenged constantly and wanted a place where I could experience new things and be exposed to different professional, personal, social, and academic possibilities. I have been involved in quite a lot here at Rutgers—including being chapter president of Alpha Chi Omega, assistant director for Rutgers University Dance Marathon on the dancer relations team, and events coordinator for the Pre-Law Society. I am also a member of the Coalition of Women of Color and Jhoom Dynamix, a South Asian female dance team. My involvement pushed me outside my comfort zone and allowed me to see Rutgers in a different light. As a result, I have become a well-rounded individual motivated to positively impact society after graduation.

That is exactly what I intend to do. As an aspiring lawyer, I will give back to the world by giving a voice to individuals that may not have the courage to speak up.

Rutgers Global–Study Abroad

In today’s interconnected world, students who enter the workforce having had a strong global experience hold a significant advantage over their competition. Rutgers helps expand students’ global education through more than 130 study abroad and service-learning abroad programs. With scholarship offerings and opportunities in every region of the world regardless of major, studying abroad is an option for every Rutgers student, not just a select few.

Rutgers Global–Study Abroad seeks to ensure that every Rutgers student has access to opportunities for global learning that are academically rigorous, degree-relevant, and culturally transformative, and empower students for impact in local and global communities.

Our Access the World initiative offers more than 30 semester programs across the globe at or below Rutgers cost: global.rutgers.edu/access

Rutgers Global–Study Abroad opportunities include:

- Programs ranging from full semesters to one week during a school break: global.rutgers.edu/program-search
- Service Learning
- International Internships
- Global Research
- Online Global Courses

Interested students are invited to join us at our annual Study Abroad Fair each fall on the New Brunswick campus and to stop by our office for more information.

Pre-College Programs

Jump start your future at one of the nation's top research universities with these pre-college programs, designed for high-achieving students.

Summer Scholars Program allows students (16 years and older) to:

- Take up to two college courses for credit before entering college
- Learn from award-winning faculty
- Explore interests and possible majors

Pre-College Academies provide students (ages 16–18) with educational experiences within the college environment. During our one- and two-week programs, students have the opportunity to:

- Identify their own interest and aptitude for fields of study
- Learn about a discipline from experts and practitioners
- Practice skills required for success in fields of interest

Preparing for the SAT or ACT? Rutgers offers test preparation workshops to help students:

- Maximize their confidence and score
- Learn proven test-taking strategies
- Review reading, writing, and math exam sections

Summer Bridge Program in Math offers students in grades 1–8 the opportunity to keep their math skills sharp over the summer. This program is ideal for reinforcing the learning gains made during the prior year or as a preview of upcoming math topics.

RUcket List

The RUcket list is a collection of experiences or achievements that a student hopes to have or accomplish during their time at Rutgers–New Brunswick. Start your journey at Rutgers and check items off your RUcket list!

Answer Your Own Great Question as an Aresty Research Assistant

The Aresty Research Assistant Program enables students to gain their first authentic research experience and earn credits by supporting faculty research projects during the academic year. As early as their first year, students can apply to gain valuable research skills by working hands-on with professors on forefront research projects.

Run the Big Chill

The Big Chill is an annual 5K charity race in December where the entry fee is a toy donation benefiting children in the New Brunswick community. The Big Chill has been a staple within the Rutgers community for 20 years and is enjoyed by thousands of runners yearly.

Browse the Collections at the Zimmerli Art Museum

The Zimmerli Art Museum is one of the largest and most distinguished university-based museums in the country. With more than 60,000 works in its collection, the museum frequently updates the permanent galleries with works that spotlight an artist, period, or theme. Admission is free.

Enrich Yourself on an Alternative Break

The Rutgers University Alternative Break program provides groups of undergraduate students with a semester-long experience centered on community service. Participants learn about a particular community issue during five weeks of pre-trip meetings and a volunteer break excursion. On site, students provide necessary services and explore the culture and history of the area. Past locations include New Orleans, Nashville, California, Puerto Rico, and Washington, D.C.

Stargaze at the Observatory

Members of the Rutgers community and the general public are invited to observe the night sky through the 20-inch optical telescope of the Robert A. Schommer Astronomical Observatory, which is located in the dome on the roof of the Serin Physics Laboratories on the Busch campus. The observatory is open the second and fourth Thursday of every month (weather permitting).

Stroll Around Passion Puddle

Situated between the Cook and Douglass campuses, the small pond is a favorite campus location for studying, enjoying nature, and young lovebirds. According to a long-standing legend, if two students hold hands and walk around the pond three times, they will be married and live happily ever after.

Cheer on the Scarlet Knights

Students can purchase discounted Rutgers football season tickets or claim free tickets on a single-game basis through the Scarlet Lottery. Admission to basketball, soccer, field hockey, wrestling, track and field, cross country, tennis, gymnastics, swimming and diving, lacrosse, baseball, softball, golf, rowing, and volleyball is free with a valid Rutgers–New Brunswick undergraduate student ID.

Revel at Club Alex

Over the years, students have developed the habit of referring to Alexander Library in a tongue-in-cheek manner as a nightclub, especially while studying late into the night for finals. “Sorry, I can’t go out tonight,” they’d say. “I’m spending the night at Club Alex.” During senior week celebrations, this joke becomes a reality as the library is transformed into a fully functional nightclub featuring a DJ, dance floor, strobe and mood lighting, and even a bar.

Compete in the Homecoming Bed Races

Student organizations race decorated beds down College Avenue to benefit New Jersey families in need. Prizes are awarded for the fastest team, best team costumes, and the best-decorated bed. The top prize is money for your student group and the highly coveted championship trophy!

Take the Plunge at the Werblin Tower Jump

Jump from the Sonny Werblin Recreation Center’s 10-meter diving tower into a 17-foot diving well. During this special spring event, you will experience what it is like to drop from over 30 feet into an Olympic pool.

Rock Out at Beats on the Banks

Beats on the Banks, sponsored by the Rutgers University Programming Association (RUPA), is one of the biggest concerts each semester. It has featured bands and artists like Coi Leray, Vic Mensa, 3Lau, Logic, Cash Cash, A-Trak, Aminé, Young the Giant, Cheat Codes, Khalid, and Chance the Rapper.

Stay on Your Feet at the Dance Marathon

Rutgers University Dance Marathon (RUDM) is the largest student-run philanthropic event in New Jersey. RUDM’s mission is to provide emotional and financial support for children with cancer and blood disorders as part of Embrace Kids Foundation. The event takes place at Jersey Mike’s Arena and to date has raised over $10 million for Embrace Kids Foundation.

Meander the Rutgers Gardens

The Rutgers Gardens is a 180-acre botanical garden consisting of designed gardens, plant collections, and natural habitats. It is free to the public, open year-round, and serves as both a place for learning and a peaceful retreat from day-to-day activities. Highlights include the 30ft culms in the bamboo grove and multiple nature trails in Helyar Woods.

Get Fed through Finals at the MidKnight Breakfast

MidKnight Breakfast is a tradition around the time of final exams each semester where the dining halls open and the faculty serve students breakfast from midnight to 2 a.m.

Chow Down on a Famous Fat Sandwich

A “Fat Sandwich” is a sub roll containing an unconventional combination of ingredients such as chicken fingers, French fries, onion rings, cheesesteak, falafel, and mozzarella sticks.

Downtown New Brunswick

Incorporated in 1730, New Brunswick played a leading role in America’s history and will always spearhead innovation in New Jersey.

Nicknamed “The Hub City,” New Brunswick is a vibrant community that connects you to history, progress, and creativity. There’s something for everyone. With professional theaters, independent film festivals, and one of the largest university art museums in the country, New Brunswick is a focal point for art and culture. Its eclectic and award-winning eateries, with cuisines ranging from Ethiopian to Italian, make it a destination for food lovers too.

While New Brunswick’s downtown is not an official campus, Rutgers’ strong presence in the heart of the city shapes its metropolitan impact. The Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy is housed in New Brunswick’s Civic Square, and Rutgers’ School of Nursing neighbors Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital, which is affiliated with Rutgers Health’s Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, the country’s largest medical school.

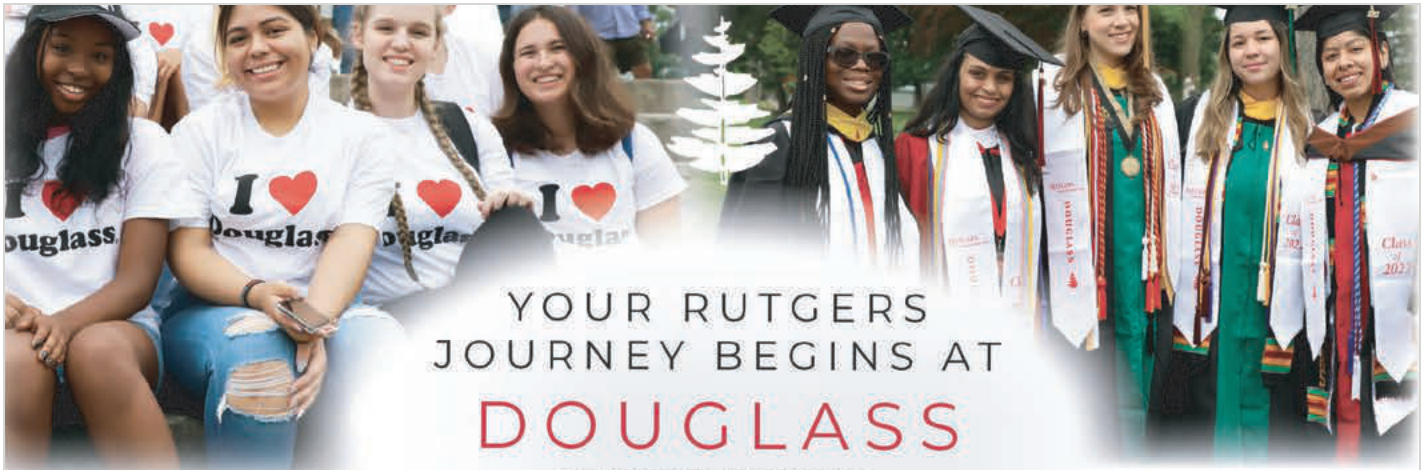

New Brunswick and Rutgers play an integral role in health care, with a constellation of health care facilities, including:

- Bristol-Myers Squibb Children’s Hospital
- Johnson & Johnson world headquarters
- Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital
- Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey
- Saint Peter’s Healthcare System

The New Brunswick Performing Arts Center (NBPAC) is a transformational project that has propelled New Brunswick’s Downtown Cultural Arts District into the spotlight as the region’s most exciting and dynamic performing arts center. NBPAC features two state-of-the-art theatrical venues in the Elizabeth Ross Johnson and Arthur Laurents Theaters, dedicated rehearsal studios, and collaborative work spaces for arts organizations across the region.

Rutgers Athletics Game Day Traditions: The Rutgers Boardwalk & The Scarlet Walk

New Jersey is a state known for its grit, passion, and energy. There's no better example of all these things than Rutgers Football game day at SHI Stadium. Home of the Rutgers Scarlet Knights, SHI Stadium is located on Busch Campus in Piscataway, New Jersey. Packed, loud, and 52,454 proud, SHI Stadium is the site for the ultimate college game day experience. The fun doesn't just begin at kick-off. Four hours prior to the start of each game, New Jerseyans unite in the excitement of our game day experience with The Rutgers Boardwalk. Visit The Rutgers Boardwalk to enjoy carnival games, rides, live entertainment, special guests, a beer garden, New Jersey's best food trucks, and more. Entrance is free, and there's tons of fun for the whole family!

Get there early for the pregame parade and pep rally featuring the Marching Scarlet Knights, Spirit Team, Sir Henry, and the Scarlet Knight riding his horse "Excalibur" down The Rutgers Boardwalk just before the football team arrives. Then join your Scarlet Knights and head coach Greg Schiano at team arrival for the traditional Scarlet Walk! Get your high-fives from the team along the Scarlet Walk as they honor the long-standing tradition of touching the First Game statue that commemorates Rutgers' victory in the first college football game ever played.

Rutgers Football: Greg Schiano

Greg Schiano, who has guided Rutgers football to a program-record five bowl championships, is in his third season since returning as the head football coach “On the Banks.” The Wyckoff, NJ native is in his second stint with the Scarlet Knights after taking the program to new heights from 2001–11. Schiano has directed the Scarlet Knights to seven bowl appearances, coached 97 Rutgers players who signed NFL contracts, and guided the program to the top APR score in the nation during his time leading Rutgers football. The 2006 National Coach of the Year owns three nine-win campaigns and has coached 18 Rutgers All-America selections.

Men's Basketball: Steve Pikiell

A father of four who has led the resurgence of Rutgers Basketball both on and off the court, Steve Pikiell has spent seven seasons as head coach of the Scarlet Knights. Under Pikiell's leadership, the team returned to the NCAA Tournament in 2021, making its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1991. The Scarlet Knights returned to the NCAA Tournament in 2022, marking the first time Rutgers has made the big dance in consecutive seasons since 1976. In 2022, Pikiell surpassed Tom Young with the most ranked wins in school history.

With 31 years of coaching experience, the Bristol, CT native is under contract to remain courtside at Jersey Mike's Arena through 2030-31 under a recently signed contract extension. As the 19th head coach in the history of Rutgers men's basketball, Pikiell has been instrumental in turnarounds throughout his playing and coaching career that have resulted in conference championships and NCAA berths. Pikiell received his 100th career victory at Rutgers and 300th career victory during the 2022-23 season.

Women's Basketball: Coquese Washington

Coquese Washington was named the third full-time head coach in the history of Rutgers women's basketball on May 23, 2022. A three-time Big Ten Coach of the Year during her 12-year tenure at Penn State, Washington most recently served as associate head coach at Notre Dame for two seasons. She arrived "On the Banks" with 22 years of experience coaching championship-caliber basketball and program building.

During her first year at the helm of the Scarlet Knights, Washington set a solid foundation for the team. She guided the program to reach its 1,000th win with a victory over Minnesota (Jan. 12) on the road, becoming the 22nd Division I team and the third squad in the Big Ten to reach the milestone. In the same game against the Gophers, Washington also picked up her 100th Big Ten win.

Washington helped to lead freshman guard Kaylene Smikle to greatness, as she was named to the All-Big Ten Second Team (Media & Coaches) in addition to the All-Freshman Team (Media & Coaches). The guard also collected three Big Ten Freshman of the Week honors, the most in program history. Under Washington's guidance, Smikle became the all-time leading freshman scorer in program history, ending the season with 573 points.
