Welcome to Michigan!

Welcome to the University of Michigan! Here on our Ann Arbor campus, you'll find a community rich with tradition, committed to life-changing education, and focused on serving the public good as one of the nation's preeminent research universities.

Through the passion and talent of our students, faculty and staff, the University of Michigan is an enduring beacon of excellence and impact in research, education, patient care, service and creative endeavors. Underlying this work is our commitment to promoting an inclusive and welcoming campus experience for our diverse community.

Here at U-M, students collaborate with faculty to address major societal issues through their research and produce scholarship and creative work that promotes understanding and enriches the human experience. These values push us to provide the best and most forward-looking education available today.

To ensure that a U-M education remains affordable, we have increased financial aid to eliminate cost barriers for talented, hard-working students from Michigan families with financial need. Everyone should have an opportunity to learn and thrive at U-M.

Thank you for visiting the University of Michigan. I hope you will take time to explore our campus and learn more at umich.edu.

Traditions

Block M on the Diag A gift from the Class of 1953, the bronze Block M has a legend attached to it: if you step on it, you'll fail your first blue book exam.

Winged Helmet Until Fritz Crisler arrived in 1938, football players had plain black helmets. Crisler recommended a more unique helmet that could help passers spot their receivers downfield. Today, U-M's maize and blue winged helmet is one of the most recognizable symbols in college football.

Maize & Blue In 1867, students chose maize and azure blue as the school colors. Today, the university uses PMS 282 and PMS 7406, a maize-and-blue color palette that represents shades used by school officials and the Athletic Department through the years.

Michigan Marching Band Nothing says spirit like the Michigan Marching Band! Historically ranked as one of the best in the nation, it was formed in 1896 and is an important part of every football Saturday.

The Wolverine Since the earliest days of documented U-M history (as early as 1861), students, alumni, and fans have been referring to themselves as "Wolverines," although no one knows exactly why.

Engineering Arch Legend has it that if two Wolverines kiss under the arch at midnight, they are destined to marry.

Research to Serve the World

Biological Sciences Building >

As one of the nation's leading public research universities, the University of Michigan and its students, faculty, and staff play a critical role in addressing emerging challenges and opportunities in areas of broad societal impact.

With 19 schools and colleges and more than 200 centers and institutes, U-M research, scholarship, and creative practice spans nearly every major facet of science, engineering, medicine, social sciences, business, the arts and humanities, public policy, and education.

The university has conducted more than $1 billion in research for 14 consecutive years, and in fiscal year 2023, research expenditures totaled $1.86 billion.

Numbers like this are important in order to comprehend the vast amount of research, scholarship, and creative practice catalyzed at U-M, but even more important is the university's collective focus on how that funding benefits society as a whole.

Research at U-M leads to advancements in fields ranging from Great Lakes sustainability and driverless vehicle technologies to chronic disease and firearm injury prevention.

And it's not just excellence across a broad spectrum that sparks innovative research at U-M. It's the unique opportunity for collaboration across the campuses and beyond that has led to the university's exceptional record of achievement.

Working together across disciplines is a hallmark of U-M, as researchers collaborate to advance knowledge, solve challenging problems, create new products, and enhance quality of life.

U-M's research enterprise not only provides remarkably fertile ground for generating new ideas and insights—it also enhances both undergraduate and graduate education.

In the classroom and through direct involvement in research, students develop a spirit of inquiry and creativity that prepares them to make a difference no matter what careers they pursue.

Health and Well-being

The University of Michigan is committed to supporting the health and well-being of its entire community. In addition to the dozens of units and programs that support various aspects of this work on campus, U-M has taken an institutional approach to make a meaningful impact.

In September 2021, U-M joined seven other U.S. universities in adopting the Okanagan Charter, pledging a commitment to take a holistic and sustainable approach to becoming a health-promoting university.

Today, this work is led by the Well-being Collective, a collaborative effort focused on making U-M a better place to live, work, and learn for our students, faculty, and staff by implementing a systemwide approach to supporting well-being across our campus.

The Well-being Collective is sponsored by the Provost and the Vice President for Student Life. Input from the campus community led to the development of a common agenda that will inform the Collective's work moving forward. Learn more: wellbeing.umich.edu.

Campus Sustainability

Through education, research, and operations, U-M is taking action on climate and innovating toward sustainability.

- ▶ Our educational programs encourage environmental literacy and inspire students to become lifelong sustainability advocates, personally and professionally.
- ▶ Our research programs draw on our commitment to the public good and our knowledge across disciplines to address major sustainability challenges, locally and globally.
- ▶ Our operations push toward carbon neutrality, setting an example for others who wish to do the same, and using our campus as a living-learning laboratory.

Combined efforts in these three areas represent our institutional commitment to sustainability, known as Planet Blue. As a visitor on campus, you'll experience a range of benefits that stem from Planet Blue, including:

- ▶ Pollinator gardens, native prairies, and tree plantings across campus that create a healthy, beautiful outdoor environment.
- ▶ Student-grown food from the Farm Stand, a collaboration between our Campus Farm and Sustainable Food Program that offers fresh produce and education about local food systems to the campus community.
- ▶ Campus waste solutions like composting bins, recycling bins, and 400+ water bottle filling stations across campus.
- ▶ Hybrid-electric buses that encourage commuting and result in less air pollution and fuel consumption.

Climate Action

Carbon neutrality is achieved when all quantifiable greenhouse gas emissions are eliminated or offset by investments in carbon credits or sequestration projects. In May 2021, U-M committed to achieving carbon neutrality in alignment with international science-based guidelines. This ongoing effort spans the Dearborn, Flint, and Ann Arbor campuses, Michigan Medicine, and Athletics.

Student Life

North Quad >

Everyday life on campus: it's virtually everything outside the classroom, from housing and dining to recreation and events—it's Student Life! See how you can make the most out of your experience at U-M.

Something for Everyone

Starting your life at Michigan can be exciting, but it can also be a bit overwhelming. Student Life offers programs and services to help students find a sense of belonging and make the campus experience their own. They can find a niche and get involved through student organizations, leadership opportunities, campus jobs and internships, and much more. There's something for everyone!

Becoming The Leaders and Best

While the classroom prepares students to pursue a career or calling, Student Life helps students pursue self-discovery and personal growth. Here are some examples of the many resources available to U-M students:

- ▶ Campus involvement opportunities like UMix and UUWeekly bring students together to build new relationships.
- ▶ Residential programs allow students to learn about relationships, leadership, and justice—right where they live.
- ▶ Job opportunities within Student Life give students the chance to learn new skills and gain essential employment experience.
- ▶ The University Career Center helps students prepare for life after college through resume building workshops, interview preparation, and networking opportunities.

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

Student Life offers hundreds of programs, resources, tools, and learning experiences to help create a diverse and multicultural community at U-M. For example:

- ▶ Trotter Multicultural Center offers programs, activities, and events designed to bring students together in a space of equity, liberation, and cultural innovation.
- ▶ Multi-Ethnic Student Affairs engages the campus community and transforms the student experience to build inclusive spaces and equitable opportunities for all.
- ▶ The Spectrum Center (established in 1971) serves the LGBTQ+ community as well as the larger U-M community.
- ▶ The Program on Intergroup Relations is a social justice education program that helps prepare students to live in a diverse world.
- ▶ The International Center facilitates intercultural and international education, and fosters a global campus community at U-M and beyond.
- ▶ Michigan Housing offers living and learning programs that help students connect over interests and build community.

600+

Student Organizations
Dedicated to Service and Activism

The Ginsberg Center is a community and civic engagement center with a mission to cultivate and steward equitable partnerships between communities and U-M. Its goal is to advance social change for the public good through social justice education, workshops, and hands-on opportunities with community organizations.

The Center also partners with faculty and staff to enhance student learning through consultation. This is achieved by connecting socially just community experiences to coursework, programs, and research. Hundreds of local opportunities are listed on the Center's volunteer portal at connect2community.umich.edu. Students can explore opportunities for employment, work-study, and internships. For instance, at Storytelling for Social Change, students create audio/visual products—things like social media templates, videos, and images—that help community organizations tell their stories.

The Ginsberg Center is also U-M's hub for democratic engagement, with a focus on nonpartisan voter engagement, civics and media literacy, and dialogue across difference. Specific work includes the Big Ten Voting Challenge and Pathways to Civic Engagement.

Maize Pages

The Maize Pages website contains a database of U-M's 1,700+ student organizations. To find service-focused orgs, visit maizepages.umich.edu and filter by the "service/service learning" and "activism" categories.

Campus Involvement

Here's What's Happening

The U-M campus hosts tons of lectures, art exhibits, performances, social opportunities, and other events. So how will you know what's going on? Visit events.umich.edu for a comprehensive listing of things to do on campus.

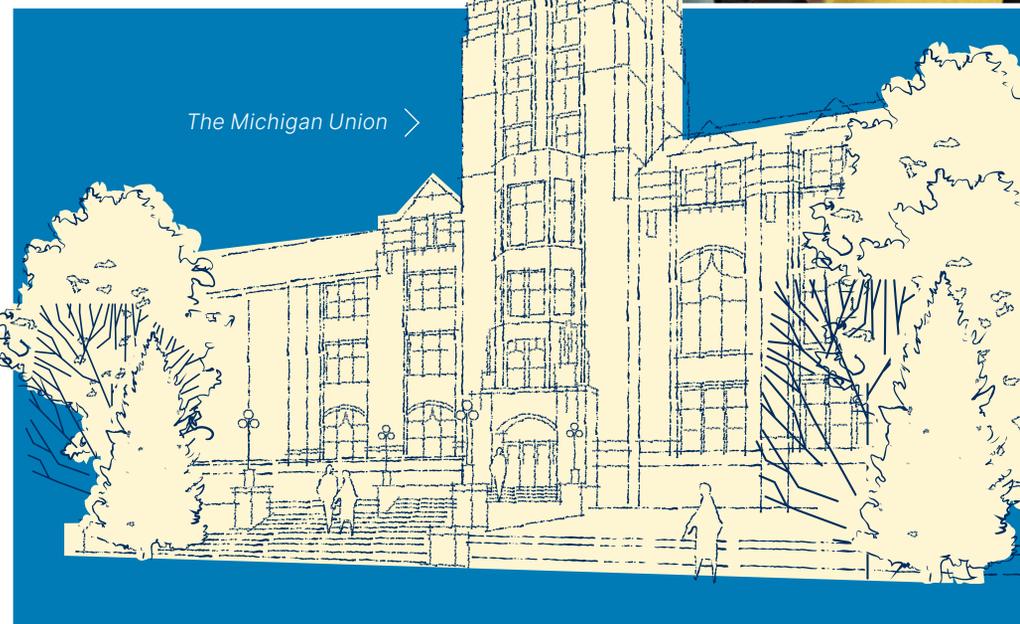

Getting involved with student organizations can play an important role in your success at U-M. It can help you meet new people, discover new passions, and learn valuable skills for college and beyond.

We are proud to recognize over 1,700 registered student organizations, covering interests like academics, activism, creative and performing arts, health and wellness, religion and spirituality, and sports and recreation.

How to get involved:

- ▶ Browse student organization tables at Festifall in September and Winterfest in January.
- ▶ Visit Maize Pages at maizepages.umich.edu to create a personal profile and get customized suggestions for organizations and events. You can also contact an Organization Peer Advisor for personalized support using the site.

The Center for Campus Involvement (CCI) is your go-to resource for getting involved. A dynamic, student-focused department within University Unions, CCI supports student organizations through education, advising, advocacy, and a number of other services. It also implements 300+ student events each year, including UMix Late Night, Finals Survival Breakfast, cultural and educational programs, films, art exhibits, concerts, and more.

The Michigan Union >

Fraternity and Sorority Life

Founded in 1845, roughly 5,000 undergraduate students comprise the Interfraternity Council, Multicultural Greek Council, National Pan-Hellenic Council, and Panhellenic Association. The four councils pride themselves on individuality, while also aligning with the common values and principles of the fraternity and sorority community.

For more information, visit fsl.umich.edu.

The IdeaHub

The IdeaHub is a collaborative, innovative space that serves U-M's 1,700+ student organizations and their members. It was envisioned by students for students, and was added to the second floor of the Michigan Union during a major renovation completed in 2020.

At the IdeaHub, students are encouraged to work within and among their student organizations, exchange ideas with other groups, and participate in development opportunities. It's a great place to host e-board meetings, committee meetings, or to just get things done in a positive, productive, and cohesive space.

Organization Peer Advisors are also available to help students find community and get involved on campus.

Student Housing

One of the most exciting aspects of the college experience is finding the right place to live, and U-M students have a wide variety of housing options to choose from.

Michigan Housing serves as home for undergraduate students, graduate students, and students with families. Facilities include 18 residence halls, as well as four apartment complexes located on North Campus. But it's far more than just a place for resting or studying. Each residence hall is a unique community that fosters a sense of belonging and helps students connect with others. The warm community spirit and supportive residential staff make on-campus housing a popular choice for first-year and transfer students.

Michigan Learning Communities (MLCs)

MLCs allow students with similar interests and goals to live and take classes together. Each program is associated with an academic department and housed in a residence hall.

- ▶ Alice Lloyd Hall: Lloyd Scholars for Writing and the Arts
- ▶ Bursley Hall: Living ArtsEngine
- ▶ Couzens Hall: Health Science Scholars
- ▶ Mosher-Jordan Hall: Michigan Research and Discovery Scholars; Women in Science and Engineering Residence Program
- ▶ North Quad: Global Scholars Program; Max Kade German Program
- ▶ South Quad: Bridge Scholars Plus; Honors Program
- ▶ East Quad: Residential College
- ▶ West Quad: Michigan Community Scholars Program

Theme Communities

Theme Communities offer students a residential space combined with programming and resources focused around a particular interest or group.

- ▶ Bursley Hall: SubFree; LiveWell
- ▶ Couzens Hall: 1st Gen
- ▶ East Quad: Innovation; Gender Inclusive Living Experience
- ▶ Helen Newberry Residence: Adelia Cheever Program
- ▶ North Quad: International Impact
- ▶ Oxford Houses: Sustainable Living Experience
- ▶ Stockwell: Second Year Experience
- ▶ West Quad: Multicultural Housing Community; Living Business

Living Off Campus

Beyond the Diag (BTD) is the off-campus housing resource at U-M that helps students search for rental listings, find safety resources, and more. The 12 BTD neighborhoods located near North and Central campuses are designed to connect students to important university resources and enhance their overall college experience. All students living off campus have the option to ride city buses for free using their Michigan ID. Learn more at offcampus.umich.edu.

Cooperative Housing

The Inter-Cooperative Council (ICC), more commonly known as “Co-ops,” is a longstanding intentional community at Michigan and an excellent way to live in a unique environment that emphasizes social and communal equality with a distinctly personalized sense of community.

The ICC is composed of 17 houses in three areas: Kerrytown, South Campus, and North Campus. Specific themes include vegetarian, international, a safe space for QTPOC, Good Times For All, themeless, and more! Visit icc.coop for more information.

Residence Hall Cafes & Markets

- ▶ Bursley: Blue Market
- ▶ East Quad & South Quad: Blue Cafe
- ▶ Mary Markley: The Pantry
- ▶ Mosher-Jordan: Blue Cafe and Market
- ▶ Munger Graduate Residences: Blue Market

Whatever you're craving, whether it's a fresh grab-and-go lunch in between classes or a late-night snack at one of our three unions, there are plenty of ways to stay fueled and nourished at U-M.

Michigan Dining

One of the largest collegiate food service operations in the nation, the Michigan Dining program includes seven full-service residential dining halls and a network of 22 on-campus cafes, markets, and grills. Additionally, Michigan Catering and Catering-to-Go provide food for over 6,000 events each year.

Nutrition and Allergy Information Online, digital, and printed menus provide nutrition and allergen information for every item served, and a campuswide system of icons identifies dishes that are MHealthy, gluten-free, halal, carbon, kosher, vegan, and vegetarian. There are also gluten-free pantries in every dining hall. Registered dietitians are available to help students with nutrition questions or special dietary needs. For more information, visit myumi.ch/mZ46J or reach out at eatsmart@umich.edu.

University Unions The student unions are popular gathering places filled with a variety of restaurants and eateries. Some are locally owned, some are Michigan Dining facilities, and others are national brands. All accept major credit cards, Blue Bucks (U-M's electronic "campus cash"), and Dining Dollars (included in campus meal plans). Visit unions.umich.edu for hours and locations.

Campus Dining

Fresh, Local, and International Part of Michigan Dining's mission is to introduce students to a wide variety of foods and tastes. Most offerings are made from scratch and every effort is made to use fresh or locally sourced foods. Students with meal plans are welcome to eat in or they can enjoy food to go.

Student Leadership Michigan Dining employs more than 1,000 students to help keep campuswide operations running smoothly. Student employees work alongside professional staff and gain transferable skills like customer service, time management, and leadership.

Try a Dining Hall Walk-in groups of five or fewer visitors are welcome to visit dining halls during regular hours. Larger groups are welcome with advance reservations. Checks and major credit cards are accepted. For reservations or inquiries, call 734-764-3000.

Recreational Sports

Recreational Sports offers a variety of ways to enjoy healthy, fun activities at U-M, from exercise facilities and engaging classes to friendly competitions and adventures in the great outdoors.

Facilities Three campus recreation buildings offer complete fitness facilities for Rec Sports members. Amenities include gymnasiums, hundreds of cardio and strength exercise machines, and courts for drop-in sports like racquetball, basketball, and volleyball. Select buildings include swimming pools and indoor running tracks.

Group Exercise Dozens of Group-X classes are offered each semester, from cycling and yoga to Zumba and total body strength. And members with a Group-X pass enjoy unlimited access to all classes, all semester.

Personal Training Certified personal trainers assist individuals and small groups with fitness assessments, goal setting, and custom training sessions. Recreational Sports also offers training and support for students who would like to become certified personal trainers.

Exercise Your Options

Campus visitors can take advantage of a one-day pass for just $15. Bring a photo ID to any Recreational Sports facility. For more information, call 734-763-3084.

University Unions

University Unions is one of the largest college union complexes in the world, comprising over 500,000 square feet between the three union facilities: the Michigan Union, Michigan League, and Pierpont Commons. A department within Student Life, University Unions serves as a place where students can meet friends, attend events, grab food, get computer time, study, and more. Many student services and resources are also available to ensure that students thrive in the university setting.

The Michigan Union is one of U-M's most recognizable and beloved landmarks. Located in the heart of Central Campus, the Union has been a student gathering place for more than 100 years. It houses a variety of student services, an enclosed courtyard, spaces to study or relax, and options for grabbing a quick snack or meal with friends. The historic building has also served as the backdrop for many important events, including JFK's announcement of the Peace Corps concept.

The Michigan League is a popular in-between stop for students. It offers an information desk, Maizie's Kitchen and Market with various sitting areas, and a charming garden. The League also provides the university community with elegant facilities for hosting meetings and special events. Visitors can enjoy a convenient and comfortable overnight stay at the 21-room Inn at the Michigan League. In addition, the Mendelssohn Theatre is a beautiful venue to see a play or performance.

Pierpont Commons is the North Campus union where students gather to escape the hustle and bustle of the residence halls and academic buildings. It provides inviting lounges for relaxation and entertainment, along with an information center, bookstore, computer store, bank, and ATMs. Choices for dining include a convenience store, a daily rotation of local restaurateurs, several eateries offering international flavor, and the popular Fireside Cafe.

Meetings, Events & Conferences

The Michigan League and Michigan Union are stunning historical buildings located on Central Campus. Both offer a variety of spaces for hosting conferences, meetings, and events of all sizes. Host an event at U-M and enjoy the charm of campus life combined with the vibrant ambiance of a university town.

Conference and Event Services (CES) If you are planning a meeting, conference, or special event, the knowledgeable team at CES is here to help! CES is certified as a “one-stop shop” and can take care of reservations, catering coordination, registration and payments, lodging, transportation, and much more.

Michigan Catering Get comprehensive catering services and custom menu planning when you work with Michigan Catering. Their talented chefs create authentic meals that are every bit as delicious as they are beautiful.

Lodging

Whether you're looking to stay on or off campus, here are some ideas to get you started.

The Inn at the Michigan League Located in the heart of Central Campus, this landmark hotel offers 21 finely appointed guest rooms with grand views of campus and all the comforts of home. Visit inn.studentlife.umich.edu/ to view room types, see photos, and more.

Ann Arbor Lodging The Ann Arbor area offers a variety of overnight accommodations including hotels, bed and breakfasts, rental homes, and options for an extended stay.

Ann Arbor

Ann Arbor is more than a bustling university town. It's a friendly, vibrant community that offers plenty of things to see and do!

Arts and Entertainment Enjoy a show, see a live performance, or take a class! Arts and entertainment in Ann Arbor can be found at the Ann Arbor Art Center, Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra, Ann Arbor Comedy Showcase, Kerrytown Concert House, The Ark, and the historic State and Michigan theaters.

Things to Do and See Ann Arbor's calendar is full of exciting attractions! There are many popular events including the Art Fairs, Summer Festival, Film Festival, and Restaurant Week.

Year-round options include the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum and the African American Cultural and Historical Museum of Washtenaw County. Or enjoy parks with playgrounds, hiking trails, and miles of scenic pathways, as well as the picturesque Huron River.

Shopping Head downtown and check out small, independent shops like Literati Bookstore, Gutman Gallery, and Vault of Midnight. Stroll through historic Nickels Arcade for gifts, antiques, and coffee. Kerrytown offers specialty shops like 16 Hands and Found, as well as Ann Arbor's famous year-round farmers market. And Briarwood Mall is just two miles south of campus.

Restaurants A celebrated foodie destination, Ann Arbor's exploding culinary scene offers over 500 restaurants featuring a variety of tastes. Try nationally recognized Zingerman's Deli, Miss Kim, or Frita Batidos' Cuban-inspired street food (all featured on Food Network's Top Ann Arbor Places to Eat).
